Bernie Gerton's final rites set

An outpouring of community tribute is anticipated Saturday afternoon when final rites are held for Bernard T. Gerton.

A two-term mayor of Pleasanton and leader in a number of other civic roles, Mr. Gerton was at his home on St. Marys Street when he succumbed to a heart attack early Thursday morning. He would have marked his 63rd birthday on Nov. 11.

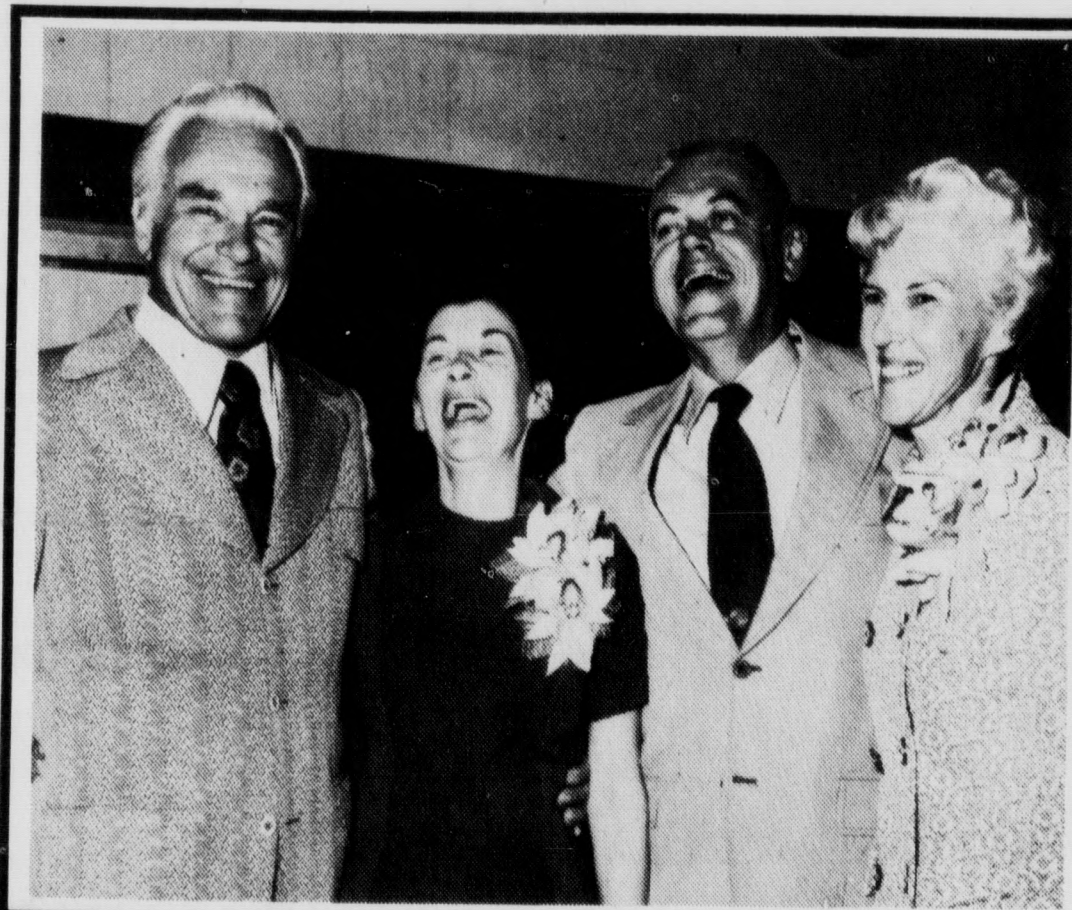

Elected to four-year terms on the city council in 1956 and again in 1968, he also served one two-year appointment starting in 1966. He was named mayor of the city in 1958 and again in 1968. He was a trustee and elder in the Pleasanton Presbyterian Community Church, member of the Alameda County Human Relations Commission, a director on the board for Pleasanton Gardens and on the Alameda County board of realtors. He was a veteran of World War II service with the United States Navy.

A colorful and sometimes controversial person, Gerton was most recently in the news for a successful challenge of a Pleasanton Redevelopment Project as it was first proposed. He had been fishing near Elko, Nevada when he suffered his first heart attack four weeks ago, but had returned to Pleasanton where "he seemed to be recuperating quite well, walking around town like his old self," his brother Mark reported. The senior Gerton's rugged veneer also mellowed somewhat in these last weeks. "He found out how many people really cared for him, and really wanted him to pull through," Mark Gerton said.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret; sons James of El Paso, Donald, Mark and Ron Smith, all of Pleasanton; a daughter, Charlene Henshaw of Lodi. His mother, Grace Berger, resides in Oceanide and a sister, Jean Martynec, lives in Vista. Mark Gerton, his brother, lives in Pleasanton. There are seven grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church with Rev. Robert Vogt presiding. Graveside services will follow at the Chapel of the Chimes in Hayward. Friends may call at the Graham-Hitch Mortuary after 12 noon Friday to pay their respects. A memorial has been established in Bernard Gerton's name to assist landscaping at Pleasanton Presbyterian Church. Other remembrances may be made through the charity of your choice.

"...and there was nothing that he enjoyed more than a good story"

These photos from the files of The Times capture some of the spirit of the man who was identified with the valley community for 21 years. The "election victory" scene on the left included then Mayor Bernard Gerton, Dot Reid, Councilman Bob Reid and Margaret Gerton. The photo at right was from one of his earlier campaigns for the Pleasanton city council.

Supervisors have change of heart

Church wins appeal as lot sizes reduced

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Some sixty jubilant parishioners applauded county supervisors Thursday when the board agreed to reclassify a five-acre parcel near Pleasanton to allow development of single family residences on 60,000 square foot lots.

The Evangelical Free Church of Pleasanton overturned a prior board decision when valley supervisor representative John Murphy told fellow board members neighbors no longer opposed the change.

The county planning department recommended disapproval of the change because creation of three developed lots would add three septic tanks to an area not served by sewer lines.

The nearest lines, planning director Bill Fraley told the board, are nearly a mile away.

The only dissenting vote came from chairman Fred Cooper who said, "I don't think a church should be given special consideration."

Fellow supervisors Joseph Bort, "reluctantly" agreed to go along with Murphy, but held reservations that approval would lead to a proliferation of requests for upgrading zoning.

Three 10-acre and one five-acre sites border the church property and Bort wondered "where are we going to stop" the change in zoning.

According to Murphy, however, only the church land and the adjacent five-acre parcel have the required frontage on a county road. The other parcel already is home-steaded, he said, and the 10 acre sites are accessible only by private road.

The group needs the revenue to build a church, Murphy said.

"Other people need revenue, too," Cooper responded.

The parcel was considered unsellable while zoned an agricultural district. County zoning ordinances permit only one dwelling per hundred acres on agriculturally zoned land.

The board also granted a one year reprieve to the Eller Outdoor Advertising Company in granting continued use of an outdoor sign on Livermore's First Street just beyond the city's border.

Proponent Frank Sanchez argued that the area is "not truly agricultural in nature" because it's bordered by encroaching industrial development.

Even Livermore, with its proliferation of restrictions, hasn't forced down signs on city property, Sanchez said.

A motion to grant an indefinite variance failed, but chairman Fred Cooper's move to grant a one year continuance to "see what Livermore does about its signs" passed.

The board automatically will discuss the issue next year taking note of nearby industrial expansion and the city's signs.

Pleasanton schools to sample 'enrichment'

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Elementary School District will launch a pilot enrichment program separate and distinct from the Mentally Gifted Minor (MGM) concept.

Following lengthy debate Wednesday, board members approved the pilot program proposal. It will involve selection of a teacher, followed by organization of particular courses of study suited to the 10 children to be selected.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin keynoted the discussion by advising board members the intent (of the Pleasanton district program) is to be outside the state guidelines for MGM. The enrichment program is an outgrowth of the district MGM committee.

Trustee Joe Schwab again expressed severe reservations over any program where the funding is exclusively to "identify" children.

Anthony Huff, principal at Walnut Grove School, reported on his visit to an MGM-enrichment class in the San Juan School District (near Sacramento).

Huff said the pilot program developed for Pleasanton differs from others in that it is volunteer. "It's not an answer — just another way to look at kids. There'll actually be 10 different study programs, not just one." The board also reviewed the results of the meet and confer process, the euphemism for teacher-administration salary and benefit negotiations.

In the negotiation process, administration and board members, aided by counsel, develop a proposal as does the Certificated Employees Council. During the past year, Keith Breen, a Portola Valley lawyer, has served as Amador and Pleasanton legal counsel.

Board members also reviewed first reading of policies on complaints about school personnel, and an amended maternity leave policy.

Installation of moveable walls at Harvest Park School, an $18,666.90 project, was accepted.

The board also reviewed administrative regulations regarding assignment and transfer policy.

A Valley View School kindergarten curriculum report proved to be the entertainment highlight thus far this year.

Jean Young, a kindergarten teacher at the school, demonstrated a color learning game while attired in a "good fairy" costume — stepping deftly about the board room with magic wand and magic dust.

Dr. Newlin was presented with a "hugable" inflated doll, as reporters gnashed their teeth, wishing they had brought cameras.

Mrs. Ione Arnold, a long-time kindergarten teacher at Valley View, also directed a teaching machine demonstration.

Dale Hudson, principal at Harvest Park, noted a learning center being developed at the school. The instructor would work with a maximum of three or four students at a time on a particular learning difficulty, i.e. math multipliers.

A request was made to include intra-budget transfers in the board packet that is placed at the library in advance of board meetings.

Amador band struts at Cal Poly tomorrow

The Amador Valley High School band will participate in the field presentation Saturday afternoon at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, as part of the California Bicentennial Festival of Marching Bands.

Amador's performance, along with the Los Amigos High band from Fountain Valley in Orange County, will take place at the Cal Poly football stadium prior to that school's game with Idaho State.

On Saturday morning, the U.S. Army's 7th Division

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Opponents of Edwin Burr's proposed Sunol Ridge development were stymied in their appeal before the Alameda County Board of Supervisors Thursday when the controversial developer failed to appear before the board.

It was the third postponement since September and set back efforts of Sherman Lewis, a Hayward professor, and the Preserve the Area Ridge-land Committee (PARC) to forestall development of the 1,520 acre site.

PARC representative Margaret Tracy came prepared to read a two-page statement urging supervisors to rescind permission for the project.

PARC wants the plan thwarted because of its "incompatibility with principles of the Open Space Element, with the Pleasanton - Dublin Hill Amendment to the General Plan ... its conflict with the ABAG (Association of Bay Area Governments) Regional Plan and with (a resolution) of the Regional Water Quality Control Board."

Supervisors earlier this year concurred with the county planning commission and gave the green light to plans to develop eight 100-plus acre parcels.

Each site would contain a five-acre "developed" portion for the owner, plus 655 acres kept open to all owners.

The board was warned Thursday by county counsel

Thomas Fenone that regardless of Burr's plans for a "private" access road to eliminate county liability on the 23-degree grade, the county ultimately would be liable.

Holy hazards border Santa Rita bike path

PLEASANTON — It has been a couple of years since Robert Pearson left the city council, but he had the satisfaction Tuesday of acting as a civic troubleshooter again.

As he was cycling home from his job at Kaiser Center for Technology, Pearson observed 20 or so freshly-dug potholes 15 inches in diameter and approximately four feet deep next to the pedestrian-bike path on Santa Rita Road between Mohr Avenue and Morganfield Road.

He felt the holes would be a series hazard to pedestrians and cyclists, especially at night. Pearson complained to city hall, reminding staff officials of an accident a few years ago when a Pleasanton Meadows boy fell into a construction site hole not much larger than the Santa Rita Road potholes.

Assistant City Manager Alan Campbell said yesterday he talked to Morrison Homes workers who are installing a fence along the sidewalk. Campbell didn't think the holes were hazardous — they weren't very large, he said — but felt it isn't a good idea to have the holes around for too long.

They'll play to beat the band

Twenty-eight of the better high school marching bands in northern and central California will turn Pleasanton into "music city-USA" Saturday.

Rain or shine, the more than 2,000 musicians are coming to the valley to take part in "Americana '76 Band Review and Halftime Competition," organized by the Foothill High School Band Boosters.

The 11 a.m. parade and 6:30 p.m. field competition will culminate a half-year's efforts by Foothill band director Robert Moorefield and upwards of 50 dedicated Foothill Band Boosters.

Foothill's award-winning band, preceded by a color guard from the 185th Military Police Battalion of the National Guard, will lead the march from Amador Valley High School, along Santa Rita and Main, right on Rose and thence to the County Fairgrounds.

A reviewing stand will be set up at St. John and Main Streets. Pleasanton city councilman and National Guard officer Roger McLain will be review officer. Judges and other VIPs will also review the parade from the stand.

Bands participating, in the order they will appear in the parade, are: Foothill, Prospect (Saratoga), Half Moon Bay, Willits, Capuchino (San Bruno), John Swett (Crockett), St. Mary's (Berkeley), San Leandro, Dublin, Tracy, Modesto, Miramonte (Orinda), Silver Creek (San Jose), Crestmoor (Daly City), Highlands (Sacramento), Kennedy (Fremont), Downey (Modesto), Live Oak (Morgan Hill), Los Altos, Armijo (Fairfield), Livermore, Piedmont Hills (San Jose), Watsonville, Glendora, Granada Clovis and Sunnyvale.

Bands will step-off from Amador at four-minute intervals.

At 2:30 Saturday, awards will be made to those bands adjudged the best in several categories. The program is open to the public free of charge at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre. Should it rain, the ceremonies would be held in the Young California Building.

The evening performances, a series of halftime-type maneuvers by 18 of the bands, is slated for Amador Valley High's football stadium at 6:30. Awards will be made in each of three classes with the top aggregation winning the Sweepstakes Trophy, being donated by the Pleasanton Lions Club.

Admission Saturday night is $1.50 for adults and $1 for children. Refreshment booths will be manned by Foothill Band Boosters at the evening performance and along the parade route.

The Pleasanton Rotary Club has donated the Sweepstakes Trophy for the parade.

Glendora, which is coming north to participate here and at the Oakland Raiders game Sunday, will stay at band parents' homes in Livermore.

Jack Kendall will be the evening performance announcer and Dan Mazy the afternoon program emcee. Co-directors of the review are Jim Davenport and Bob Morgan. Band chairmen are Hank Becker and Henry Beretty and Jim Bowe is in charge of the evening show. Estelle Newcomb is publicity chairwoman.

Drama clubs win praise for effort

The Amador and Dublin High drama clubs captured accolades for decorations at the Twin Valley YMCA's "Haunted House," held the week of Halloween at the Y offices in Pleasanton.

According to Jim Allen, committee chairman, local youth groups decorated and staffed the "house" during its operation and competed for popular votes cast by children.

There were also judged prizes, accomplished prior to the opening of the event.

The winners were: Dublin High dramatists, first prize popular vote and second prize judged vote; Amador High dramatists, first prize judged vote and second prize popular vote; Northern California Canoe Club, third prize popular vote; VACAC Drama Club, fourth prize popular vote; Pleasanton Juniors, fifth prize popular vote.

Livermore Y's Men's Club provided volunteer coordinators and workers during the week-long run, which saw almost 1,500 people viewing the "spook rooms."

Big park buy considered in valley

LIVERMORE — The East Bay Regional Park District may be making a major land purchase to round out Morgan Territory Regional Preserve, just north of Livermore on Morgan Territory Road.

Directors are considering adding 555 acres to the 970 acres purchased in July. The new lands would include a 395-acre parcel extending the main ridgelines north for about a mile and a 160-acre parcel off the northeast corner on a minor ridge parallel to the main ridge.

Their cost would total $400,000.

The 555 acres are owned by Mrs. Beatrice Cardozo of Morgan Territory Road, and have not yet been appraised.

EBRPD directors accepted an initial study and evaluation report on the acreage at their Tuesday meeting.

The park district, which serves Contra Costa and Alameda counties, has applied for $100,000 in 1974 State Park Bond Act funds to be used towards buying the land.

No pledges, no blame

Narcotics Anonymous opens

There are probably as many definitions of drug abuse as there are drug abusers.

Narcotics Anonymous (NA) doesn't care about definitions. NA isn't in business to assess blame.

NA is set up to help anyone who is abusing drugs and has a desire to stop. A new chapter of NA has been established in Pleasanton to serve the entire valley. The first meeting will be Sunday, Nov. 9 from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the YMCA, 287 Rose Ave., Pleasanton.

NA was founded 16 years ago in Southern California. Patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, the focus at first was the user of hard drugs. Now a great deal more attention is being paid to the abuse, misuse, and excessive use of all types of drugs, including those legally available.

Anonymity is the cornerstone of the approach. Only first names are used. Only drug abusers may attend. There are no leaders, no initiation fees, no pledges, no promises to make.

No one will ask you what or how much you used, who your connections were, or what you have done in the past.

NA is not a "cure" but a "program of simple spiritual principles" and sharing of personal experiences to aid in recovery.

Attendance at NA is often part of a program of follow-up therapy for people who have been in rehabilitation programs.

Each week a meeting leader is chosen to speak on her/his personal experiences. Typical topics include how to abstain from drugs, and how to associate with friends who use drugs if you're trying to abstain.

Before the Pleasanton group was formed, people interested in NA had to commute to San Jose, Berkeley, or San Francisco.

A cooperative organization,

Nar-Anon, has been formed to help families and friends of drug abusers understand and deal with the drug abuser.

There is no Nar-Anon group meeting in the valley interested in setting up such a group should call 846-5286 for more information.

The closest local Nar-Anon groups meet in Walnut Creek, Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in conference room two at Kaiser Hospital, and in San Jose, Wednesdays at 8 p.m., 1710 Moor Park.

Nar-Anon suggests the "family's best defense against the emotional impact of drug abuse is gaining knowledge and achieving the maturity and courage need to put it into effect."

The selling of redevelopment

Are those who are charged with leading this city really convinced that redevelopment is a sound approach to Pleasanton's long list of public improvements? If they are, then they had best plan to carry that message to the people with more verve than has been evident in the first rounds of that campaign.

The decision to place the redevelopment question before the people — if that is to be the city council's final decision — is a valid outgrowth of that long series of public hearings, debate and exchange which occupied much of the past year. Again, we commend the system that encouraged all that input, and we feel the city council is responding to those who raised many valid questions in the detail of that first proposal.

What we are really confronted with now is not the detail but rather the philosophy of redevelopment. "We want no part of it," says a sampling of the citizenry that represents maybe five percent of the city electorate. It is important to learn how the other 95 percent feel.

It is also essential that we learn, very early in the game, how our elected and appointed leaders feel about redevelopment — or any other mechanism available to us to meet some rather critical needs. If Pleasanton is going to attempt to sell a bold idea, then our very best sales force should be brought into the act.

We do not share the concern of those who "don't want the city hall forcing this thing down our throats." Agreed, the final decision on any program of this magnitude, should rest with the people. But we must always rely on the expertise of those we hire, and the wisdom of those we elect, to guide us in these things. That was not always evident in the initial redevelopment presentations. Taking this case to the people is a good move if it means we are going to have enlightened discussions, clear answers and spirited campaigning. But turning to a vote of the people instead of a decision by the council will change nothing if we are to be subjected to the same series of confused, even bitter confrontations that marked that first sales effort.

The people learned a great deal from all that. Let's hope the city administration and the city council also profited from those earlier mistakes. Revitalization of our community, under any terms, is only as good as the vitality of the people involved in that program.

Dublin's triumph

We hope you caught Reina Whitney's report in Sunday's Times saluting the 15th anniversary of "The New Dublin." It was written from the vantage point of one who has lived that amazing story, and who is still here to share those memories with the rest of us.

Most startling were the numbers of other "San Ramon Village pioneers" that Mrs. Whitney was able to uncover, still part of that community, many of them residing in the same house they purchased on Volk-McLain's alkaline flats, way back in 1960.

As the reporter reminded us, there were many prepared to discount that whole development venture, and many more to suggest that the bold "New Town" scheme would never succeed, at least not by itself. But the true test of any housing venture is not houses or stores or streets; rather it is people, their will, their spirit. Dublin — and later the southern appendage of San Ramon — succeeded on all those counts. That is why the community thrives today, even where the facts of finance and utility and politics are not always clearly in the peoples' favor.

We don't know if another such "New Town" could succeed in this valley. Indeed, the record across the country does not speak well for new urban centers, thrust onto the barren land. That makes the Dublin-San Ramon success story all the more thrilling, and that much greater tribute to the people who came, who remained, and who make it all happen.

An energy impasse

The complex cluster of issues that come under the heading of energy policy continues to baffle the decision makers at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. Though the Administration and Congress agree on the short-term goals of U.S. energy policy — to reduce energy consumption and expand domestic production, thus lessening the nation's dependence on foreign imports — they disagree over how to achieve these goals.

The immediate and visible energy crisis caused by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo on oil shipments to the U.S. has passed, but the long-range energy problem persists. Domestic production of oil and natural gas, which account for 75% of the nation's energy consumption, continues to decline (the 1974 production rate of both was down 5% from 1973). The percentage of imported oil has crept up to 40% of all U.S. oil consumption and the share which comes from Arab wells has risen to around 25%.

Despite rising costs and increasing environmental damage attributable to energy production or consumption, we continue to use energy in wasteful and inefficient ways.

The differences between the Administration and Congress on energy policy are fundamental. The Administration's program relies on increasing prices as the principal means of cutting energy prices on the economy, they propose a series of tax actions.

Congressional Democrats believe that economic recovery should have priority over energy conservation and that high prices would initiate another inflationary spiral and retard recovery. They call for a more gradual cut in energy demand to be achieved through import quotas, allocations and a series of energy conservation measures while new supplies are developed.

Solutions to the problems of one region inevitably impose hardships on another region. States on the two ocean coasts resist offshore drilling, but inland states want the oil. Western states view strip mining with apprehension, while energy-hungry urbanized states see coal as their salvation. It is not surprising, therefore, that, of the nearly 1,000 energy bills so far introduced, very few have been enacted.

As winter closes in, there is time to communicate with your elected representatives as they continue to struggle with the energy issues. A warm letter, handwritten by candlelight in a cold room, would not be inappropriate. — League of Women Voters

FOCUS/The Fallon Home

Our valley heritage

Our historical sites and structures need your help — NOW!

A latecomer to the effort to save and restore such valley monuments to history as the Fallon Home and Old Murray Schoolhouse, we were brought up short by the seeming last minute saving of the school structure and the vindictiveness of the continued assaults on the Fallon house.

Here are two edifices which link the present day to almost a century ago.

The aspect of one all but being shoved out of the path of bulldozers and the other being torn asunder with little recourse to preventative measures, is quite disturbing.

The Fallon Home has been vandalized to such a state that historical society members see little chance of it being saved, let alone moved to a possible "historical park" site on Hexcell property in Dublin.

But the Fallon and Murray structures are not the only links to this valley's storied past. And members of the two organizations in the valley dedicated to the preservation of same resolutely continue their efforts.

Two months ago the Dublin Historical Preservation Society was formed. As we understand it, the new group hopes to not only augment the considerable work of the Livermore-Amador Valley Historical Society but concentrate on projects in the Dublin sphere.

But the job of restoring ancient valley edifices and presenting a living history is really something everyone can take part in.

We are of the opinion, though, that one more effort should be attempted at saving Fallon Home.

That effort should commence with the Fallon Home committee and all vitally concerned with historical edifices meeting with civic officials, specifically the police department and/or sheriffs, to determine what further measures are needed to insure the safety of what remains of the Fallon structure.

Going onto property where one does not belong and defacing, destroying and/or carrying off parts is a criminal act in this writer's estimation ... and should be dealt with appropriately.

Perhaps, further education on the history of this and similar structures in the valley would help. I cannot think of a more appropriate time than the 1975-76 school year to have our schools go back into valley history.

Many accounts of valley history have been compiled and could be presented in elementary and high school classrooms during the coming school year.

The first arrival of Jeremiah Fallon in the valley is a particularly exciting piece of valley history. Capt. Fallon and his brother-in-law Michael Murray left St. Joseph, Missouri as part of a wagon train which included what was to be later known as the Donner Party. The departure took place May 7, 1846. Capt. Fallon and his wife, Ellen, had a year-old daughter at the time of leaving who came with her parents across the plains.

As the wagon train, with winter approaching, neared the High Sierra, the Fallon party separated from the train at Hastings Cut-off, taking a safer and quicker route to California. The ill-fated Donner Party instead rolled on to become tragic history, according to a compilation of Dublin's early history prepared by H.W. Kolb in 1965.

Fallon and Murray arrived at Amador (now Dublin) and went direct to Mission San Jose and raised the American flag.

Hearing of Donner's tragic end, they left the area as one of three rescue parties to return the few people that were alive.

Fallon and Murray went to the gold fields in 1850. Upon their return, they purchased 1,000 acres from Don Jose Maria Amador, who lived in a two-story adobe on the bank of Alimillo Spring — now the intersection of Highway 21 and Dublin Boulevard.

The foregoing is only a sliver from this valley's colorful past.

If the remaining structures and artifacts of that era can be preserved, so much the better.

But unless an immediate and continuing effort is made, we are going to lose the Fallon Home for all time.

Letters to the Times

Mirador traffic

Editor, The Times:

The Times article on October 21 about Ken Lamb, Pleasanton Traffic Engineer, may have explained in part the lack of consideration given by his office to the requests of local residents for a stop sign at the intersection of Mirador Dr. and Neal Street. Several neighborhood families have requested that a sign be installed and have clearly explained the need. This need still exists.

At this intersection visibility of crossing traffic is restricted from three approaches. Traffic moving on Mirador at the 25 MPH limit cannot easily stop before crossing Neal. There have been accidents and near-accidents are almost daily events. Residents of the area have not only seen these but have been involved themselves.

Although this intersection may be a quiet residential district, it is very busy intersection on weekdays and particularly on Sundays. A greater - than - average volume of traffic is generated by the proximity of Valley View School, Kinderkirk, and St. Augustine's Church. Many of the 70 children enrolled at Kinderkirk are transported to and from school through this dangerous intersection. In addition, the volume of traffic will be even larger when the Presbyterian Church moves to the site or Mirador.

It is evident that there is enough traffic to warrant a stop sign at Mirador and Neal — regardless of what Mr. Lamb's "complex warrant system" may lead him to believe. We who drive through this intersection three or four times daily know the problems. Is there a chance Mr. Lamb will reconsider our request?

Poor treatment

Editor, The Times:

I saw the worst type of cruelty and prejudice I have ever seen in my life. It happened at Valley Memorial Hospital, in emergency.

I have a friend who is very ill. She called me and asked if I would drive her to a hospital.

My friend has a brain tumor and she suffers very severe headaches. The only reason she has not had surgery is because her doctor and U.C. Medical Center in San Francisco cannot locate the exact spot of the tumor. In the mean time the headaches come and when they do she calls her doctor and he tells her to go to the nearest hospital, then have the hospital call him.

I drove my friend to VMH on Thursday, Oct. 30, 75. Anyone could look at her and see that she was in a great deal of pain... The person in emergency tells my friend that her Blue Cross Insurance is not accepted and unless my friend has cash she will not be treated. My friend had no money on her and I didn't either.

I do not understand why a hospital would turn away a person that is sick and has medical insurance. I am beginning to think my friend was not treated at VMH because of the black color of her skin.

Floyd Mori

Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) has been appointed to the new Assembly Special Subcommittee on California's Food and Agricultural Economy.

The principal task of the committee is to examine the future of the food and agricultural industry.

Mori said the committee plans to look at State agricultural policy, problems of financing, and marketing procedures.

The first hearing will be held in December. The topic will be the future of farming.

the remaining two and dispose of the organization's remaining inventory, stock valued in excess of a half million dollars.

Within 30 days Ames and his two picked men had reduced the inventory to $62,000.

"About then the boss called me in and introduced me to a little fellow sitting across the desk. The man was a buyer for another company and had offered the boss ten cents on the dollar for the remaining stock," Ames recalled.

He paused and thought that over. "I should have offered him $7,000 right there," he declared. "But I just don't think that way."

Ames remembered a dealer in Fargo, North Dakota, whom he thought could dispose of the stock and sold it to him, allowing a five percent discount for cash.

A man like that has to be a pretty good businessman even 18 years after he has retired and been turned out into Livermore's sun-washed pastures.

Which is probably why he was a little upset when he received a telephone call from his wife a few weeks ago while he was visiting friends in Wisconsin.

"She had hired a fellow to clear a sewer line and he wanted to tear up our driveway," Harold complained. "I told her if I came home and found anyone doing that I'd drive him away with a shotgun and wouldn't be afraid to shoot."

Apparently the man got the message. He climbed to the top of Ames house, dropped his equipment down a vent and pretty soon the line was clear. Mrs. Ames paid the $53.75 for an hour's work without a murmur, some $20 dollars being added to the bill for an extra man.

When Harold got home he was outraged

Round the town

It came to me while I was caught between the morning Chronicle and the toaster.

"The trouble with New York is that it was never given a proper allowance," I announced, more or less to the sugar bowl.

"What on earth are you talking about?" asked a voice from behind Stan Delaplane's Postcard. (She reads that kind of nonsense.)

Pure logic, I explained to the voice. New York is just like any other child reared without a proper understanding of money matters. Never having had a fixed allowance of its very own, the poor city didn't know how to react when Uncle Sam started pouring in millions via shared revenue, and the citizens started taking it out the other end.

"I had somewhat the same problem as a child," I remarked. (The voice was now laughing at some idiotic Delaplane paragraph.) They never would give me an allowance, and I had a terrible time gaining a proper respect for the dollar. It took me years to overcome that one flaw in my character."

"If you want toast with your eggs, you had best put two slices in that toaster," was the voice's only response. I resolved to continue my weighty discourse on finances with the sugar bowl, which appeared to be more knowledgeable in these things, and also not distracted by the writings of one Stanton Delaplane.

Learning to live within a prescribed allowance is a very important part in each child's upbringing. I advised the bowl, which appeared to agree. There was a time when my mother recognized this truth, and promised to henceforth place myself and my older brother on a steady five-cents-per-week stipend. But, as I remember it, the regular Saturday sales pitch for "McClean's Weekly Magazine" came to our front door just as I was going out the back door with my first nickel. McClean's won, and the matter of allowance was never again broached, at least not by Mother.

It was not until I landed my first steady job, as a Call Boy with the Canadian Pacific Railroad, that I was to know the responsibility of handling heavy cash. The job paid the princely sum of 25 cents per hour of labor, with absolutely no deductions, save what my sister Margerie extracted "to help you set something aside for a rainy day." I have counted two thousand and forty-six rainy days since that time, but not one cent of return on my investment with Margerie was ever forthcoming.

And that's New York's problem, the sugar bowl and I agreed. Too much money, too sudden, followed by some poor investments ... as in federal income taxes, federal gas taxes, billions to save Europe ... that sort of thing.

Reaping 25 cents for every hour I pedaled my way across the plains of Moose Jaw was a fascinating way to expose a depression-era child to the world of profit and loss. I had the night shift, which made my job that much easier ... pedaling like mad down the wrong side of Main Street, jay-riding with abandon, and nary a car or a cop in sight. Such are the rewards of calling railroad crews to duty in the hours after midnight.

We began to earn our pay only in learning the delicacies of the job. "Jim Brown's the engineer on No. 4 to Swift Current," the dispatcher would advise me, "but for gawd's sake don't look for Jim Brown at his home. Mrs. Brown thinks Jim is still laying over in Swift Current from his last run."

I would find Engineer Jim at the Palace hotel. Second floor, end of the hall. My discreet 2 a.m. knock would bring the expected "Go away!" from a female voice. Another knock, firmer. Another "Go away you —" expletive deleted. Only when I convinced the lady that Engineer Jim was about to lose the choice No. 4 run to Swift Current would a male voice finally emerge from the depths of that room. "All right, all right. Hand me the call book and I'll sign."

Never took their spoken word for it. Get their name on the dotted line. "Call received at 2:05 a.m. for No. 4 to SC." The evidence came in handy, in case Engineer Jim and the lady nodded off again, missing the train.

Thus did I learn to respect money, the 25 cents an hour paid me to wander the prairie climes, in search of crews to operate the CPR.

"If New York had learned the same kind of respect for money, they wouldn't be in that big mess today," I intoned. Out loud, unfortunately.

"What on earth are you talking about now?" demanded the voice from beyond Herb Caen. (Her tastes in columnists is terrible.)

"I was just talking to the sugar bowl about high finance," I explained, with a sheepish smile. "The lessons learned from having to earn your own way in the world as a youngster. A deeper appreciation for the value of the buck." I went on, warming up to my subject: "If more people had to work the way I did just to get a little spending money, do you suppose that the city of New York would be facing bankruptcy today?"

"Your toast is burning," she said. And in reaching for the burned bread, I knocked over the sugar bowl.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Harold Ames has lived in Livermore, if you will forgive the illiteration, for the past 18 years, a pretty good tribute to the town considering the fact that for all of that time he has been retired and could move to a more desirable location if he thought one was available.

He was a resident of St. Paul over a 40 year stretch before he moved to the village beside Concannon vineyards and settled down in the sunshine.

Not that the sun does not shine in St. Paul. The weather is bright and brassy warm come summer in midwestern states like Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Black bass rise from the chilly depths of Wisconsin Lakes to nibble on tadpoles and insects in the early morning, rest on the bottom during hot midday hours, then rise to feed again when evening comes.

Pike and pickerel, tiger toothed green torpedos, race through the waters eating anything that moves and giant Muskie feed on their young.

A fisherman's paradise during the short summer, I am told. Come autumn there is frost on the pumpkin and in the winter frostbite on the post toasters.

When winter comes the fishermen walk out on the ice which covers the lakes and cut holes. They sit beside heaters with lines running down the holes and wait for a bite in the arctic air.

Harold remembers visiting one of the lakeside cabins almost two score years ago.

The temperature was 54 degrees below zero outside the cabin. Two degrees colder on the inside. The air was not moving inside and that accounted for the extra cold.

He and the cabin owner ignited a floor furnace and got a roaring blaze going in the fireplace.

"After a few hours it warmed up to 30 below in the cabin," Harold recalls.

Perhaps that is why Harold found his retirement utopia in Livermore where a thermometer which sinks to 22 degrees is worthy of a page one story.

He spent a good part of his two decades in St. Paul in the hardware business, rising through the ranks to sales manager. Harold had been in the driver's seat a long time when the president of the company dropped by one day. The man was 85 years old and looked tired.

"You're going to look for another job in 30 days," the executive told Harold.

"That's exciting," Ames replied. "Do you mind telling me what I did wrong?"

"Not a thing," his boss replied. "Nothing at all. But we've got some hard times coming up and I've got all the money I need and don't feel like riding out the storm."

Harold was told to dismiss 68 of his 70 salesmen, take

The bidding in the box shows how the American Contract Bridge League staff figured most players with less than 100 master points would get to six hearts.

Six hearts is a fine contract and South should have little trouble making seven since things break nicely for him.

Bowles leads winless SR

Livermore High School coach Ron Berg has one basic plan when his Cowboys travel to Danville to take on the winless San Ramon Wolves in an 8 p.m. game today in East Bay Athletic League action.

"We have to stop Bowles," he says. Berg is referring to the Wolves' outstanding running back Mike Bowles, a 210-pound speedster who has been the only real consistent threat San Ramon has had all season.

Livermore is 2-1 in EBAL action and must beat the Wolves to stay in the title race with undefeated Amador and Granada.

Berg feels the Cowboys must play good defense against the pass and run to stop the Bowles-led Wolf attack and he thinks he has the men that can do the job.

Livermore has the leagues' biggest line led by junior defensive tackle Wade Andrade, a 265-pound giant. Other top defensive linemen for Livermore are 220-pound Gary Tennyson, 205-pound Bill Bradley and 200-pound Pete Howard. Howard and Bradley are seniors while Tennyson is a junior.

On offense co-Alameda Country prep of the week Rich Palmer leads the Cowboys at quarterback. He scored three touchdowns against Dublin last week to lead the Cowboys to a 21-20 victory. Palmer is a threat to pass or run on any given play and lends balance to the Cowboy attack.

Local gymnasts may have aid

Help is on the way for the future gymnasts of Dublin-San Ramon. Parents of the gymnasts had protested cutbacks in the program due to space limitations at Dublin High School, but action taken by the Valley Community Services District (VCS) Board of Directors Tuesday night may save the program.

The Parks and Recreation Committee of the VCS board recommended purchase of gymnastic equipment not to exceed $6000 to conduct a gymnastics program at California High School.

Committee's efforts to set up an arrangement with Dublin High School or Wells Intermediate School were not successful.

A separate room off the gymnasium is available at California High School. Storage space will be provided.

An agreement will be drawn up with the San Ramon Valley Unified School District under which California High School would forfeit use of the equipment if permission to use the room off the gym were revoked in the future.

Director Chuck Ladner voiced his concern about the amount of money involved.

Foreman starts training

In the quiet of that storefront Livermore gym George Foreman's comeback is taking shape. The one-time heavyweight boxing champion of the world has been training sporadically for the past three weeks.

From the buzz of activity, however, the pace is destined to pick up soon.

Foreman's new trainer, Gil Clancy, was on hand at the Rincon Shopping Center gym yesterday to lay groundwork for a proposed upcoming fight with Ron Lyle. Leroi Jackson, the former champ's business manager, was also present. Though he said no plans have been finalized for the bout, it appears imminent.

Clancy, who flew to New York last night, said he will return to Livermore next week when serious training should begin. Foreman aids have been dispatched to Oakland, San Francisco and Los Angeles to sign up a stable of sparring mates.

One of his handlers said George will probably work out daily now. All of this indicates that Foreman's one-year layoff since a title loss to Muhammad Ali is coming to an end.

"Surprisingly, he looks pretty good," said Clancy before rushing to the airport. "I don't know what he weighs, though. George is kind of funny about that. You have to ask him."

Clancy said the bout with Lyle could end up in New York City, but deferred to business manager Jackson for the final word. Jackson again said no definite plans have been made.

The fight is expected to take place by New Years Day.

Foreman, who looked paunchy and winded, sparred four rounds yesterday with undersized opponents on hand to limber up the former champ.

Though the Foreman camp is gearing up for full-bore training, the picture is one of disarray at the moment. First there is the problem of lining up sparring opposition. Secondly, Clancy has left behind a subordinate trainer who speaks no English. He relays instructions to George through a Spanish interpreter.

Jackson hovers throughout the gym, holding private conferences in dark corners and extended telephone conversations to map out details of the Lyle bout.

Harvey gets league title

LAFAYETTE — Accompanied by the spectre of the lake's alleged alligator, Dublin High School's Dan Harvey broke from the pack yesterday evening to win the East Bay Athletic League boys varsity cross-country title by a full 38 seconds at the tree-lined Reservoir course.

Although the rumored reptile was not in evidence, the relentless Harvey was monstrous enough for pre-race favorite Boyd Tarin of Livermore who faltered and finished the three mile tour in 14:44. Harvey ran a 14:06.

"Tarin started looking bad towards the middle of the race," said Harvey in the chilly aftermath of his win. "After the last hill I knew I had him."

Livermore salvaged the team championship in impressive fashion.

With Tarin and Victor Aguayo finishing 2-3 and Cowboys also taking the 7th, 8th, 11th and 14th spots, the "Pokes had just 31 points, beating rival Granada by 26 points. The Matadors also displayed a team effort as Scott Kusko (15:04) was their highest finisher, in sixth position.

Granada's Kathy Lyons led the Mat girls to victory in the 1.5 mile varsity race.

A diminutive freshman, Lyons, who took "a little bit" of confidence into the race, finished in 10:44, nipping Amador Valley's Jac Pla by a second.

A first-time runner on the Lafayette course, Lyons had no special strategy planned.

"I started out trying to stay with the leaders, but they were going too slow," she said. "So, I just started running my hardest." The Mats placed Karen Daley, Maria Anaya and Diana Stohr third through fifth to dominate the top five and win the team title by 37 points over Dublin, the only other complete team.

Greg Novacek, of Amador Valley, won the boys frosh-soph race in 10:29, followed closely by Livermore's Rob Wentworth and San Ramon's Nelson Snook, both less than five seconds later.

Snook's high finish paced the way for the Wolves to take the team championship with 41 points, nine better than Amador Valley.

Wendy Behrbaum, a consistent winner during the dual meet season, paced the girls underclass group with a six-second win over team mate Gail Coensgen (10:51-10:57).

The Dons won the division with 24 points.

Mats, Dons battle

Coach Fred Wood is leaving doubt about who will start at quarterback tonight for Amador Valley High School, when it faces Granada in a football game that should decide the EBAL championship.

Kickoff is 8 p.m. in Pleasanton.

Though his regular signal caller, junior John Sevo has recovered from flu miseries, Wood said yesterday he's contemplating another start for Sevo's backup, junior Mike Guglielmo.

Mike played most of the way last week as Amador ran its league record to 3-0 with a 17-0 whitewash of winless Monte Vista. The Dons ran up a minute 45 yards in total offense, while Sevo languished on the bench for all but a portion of the final quarter.

According to Wood, however, it wasn't Sevo's absence that resulted in a negligible offense. So Guglielmo is still in the running for the starter's role in Amador's most important game this year.

"I just haven't decided between the two," Wood said yesterday morning. "We're having a full practice this afternoon, and I'll decide after that. Sevo is completely healthy, but Guglielmo didn't do a bad job last week."

Amador's offense simply needs a tuneup, Wood said, because injuries and illnesses have thrown everyone's timing out of kilter. Two costly turnovers by Monte Vista set up Amador's touchdowns last week. In the previous game, the Dons failed to score until Sevo hit Mike Goodison with a desperation touchdown pass in the final 30 seconds to stun Livermore, 7-3.

Goodyear's "All-Weather 78" tire is built with polyester cord that's tempered in an exclusive process for optimum strength and resilience. The wide 78-series tread is "reverse molded" — a technique borrowed from race tire production. In reverse molding, the contour of the tread surface is slightly concave as it comes from the mold — so that when the tire is inflated, the tread makes full, flat contact with the road. The rib tread is well grooved, providing plenty of traction edges for decisive grip. In every detail, the "All-Weather 78" gives you honest quality, at a price that's in step with the time.
